About HeartKids

HeartKids is Australia's only national organisation dedicated to supporting children, young people and families impacted by childhood-onset heart disease (CoHD), including congenital and acquired heart conditions.

Receiving a diagnosis can feel overwhelming, especially if you are a new or expecting parent. You may find yourself navigating unfamiliar medical language, hospital stays, procedures and uncertainty about what comes next which can be difficult.

HeartKids provides practical and emotional support, trusted information, and opportunities to connect with others who understand the experience.

Our support staff visit hospitals across Australia, offering in-person support through hospital admissions, during appointments, and alongside other significant moments in a family's journey.

Many members of the team also bring lived experience, helping families to be informed, connected and supported through their child's heart condition journey.

Our support

In hospital

When you and your loved ones need to go to hospital in an emergency or for treatments, our HeartKids Support Coordinators provide practical, emotional, and informational support to assist in meeting your immediate needs while you navigate your new circumstances.

We want you to be supported and well-informed throughout your healthcare journey.

In community

Our team is here to support you after you leave hospital too. We can help with everyday challenges, answer questions and connect you with helpful services, such as:

- Personalised check-ins and support from a HeartKids Support Coordinator
- Access to the HeartKids Helpline
- Mental health support
- Tailored resources and information
- Referrals to services and supports

HeartKids Helpline

The HeartKids Helpline provides free, confidential and empathetic support, advice and information for anyone impacted by childhood-onset heart disease.

Available Monday to Friday, 9am–5pm AEST, families, carers, and young people can connect with the team by phone or livechat via the HeartKids website.
